

Climate Change Research Paper 1

This study analyzes global temperature anomalies over the past century using satellite and ground-based measurements. We find accelerating warming trends in Arctic regions consistent with ice-albedo feedback amplification.