

Machine Learning Research Paper 1

This paper presents a novel deep learning architecture for image classification using convolutional neural networks. We propose a residual attention mechanism that achieves state-of-the-art results on ImageNet benchmarks. The model uses gradient descent optimization with adaptive learning rates.