

Machine Learning Research Paper 2

We introduce a new approach to natural language processing using transformer models with self-attention mechanisms. Our method improves upon BERT and GPT architectures by incorporating sparse attention patterns for efficient training on large text corpora.