

Climate Change Research Paper 6

This study examines the carbon sequestration potential of reforestation programs in tropical regions. We quantify above-ground biomass accumulation and soil carbon changes over 20-year restoration timelines.