

Machine Learning Research Paper 11

We introduce a variational autoencoder framework for anomaly detection in time series data. The model learns latent representations that capture normal patterns and flags deviations effectively.